

The Dragon in Question

The dragon in question
is more like a mouse.
He isn't a mouse but he lives in a house.
Not IN the house –
but under the house,
the dragon that's more like a mouse.

He's tiny you see,
not as small as a flea,
but smaller than what you'd imagine he'd be!
He's more like a mouse
living under the house, he burps tiny flames
from his miniature mouth.

And would you believe,
he loves cheddar cheese –
It's yummy he says, very yummy.
Before scurrying away in a mouse-like way with plenty of cheese in his tummy.

I'll never know why,
he never does fly,

but I promise you this,
I tell you no lie,
the dragon in question
is more like a mouse,
he's more like a mouse
living under the house.

